Letters from
St. Julie Billiart ~

God alternates light and shadows so well that we always go joyously ahead.

All that we need is to have confidence and to walk wherever God Guides us.

~Francoise, L164

PENTECOST...

It has been fifty days since Easter and so today we celebrate Pentecost. It is the 'birth-day' of the Church. The gift given us from God is the gift of the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit is what brings life to the Church. Jesus' breathing the Spirit upon the disciples gives them strength and courage. The Sprit enables the disciples, the Church, to proclaim the Gospel in every land, with every language and in every way. The gifts of the Holy Spirit are manifested in each person's life uniquely and powerfully. Today, on Pentecost, the Church should most assuredly feel alive!

We are alive in the Spirit as we receive, use and share the gifts of the Holy Spirit. It is always an interesting moment when, during the Sacrament of Confirmation, the Bishop often tries to make a joke about questioning the Candidates about the gifts of the Holy Spirit. The Candidates seemingly shrink in hopes that the Bishop really won't call upon them to know. Nevertheless, whether we are a Candidate for Confirmation or a Baptized Christian, we should know what has been given to us through the gift of the Holy Spirit…

> ...send upon them, O Lord, the Holy Spirit, the Paraclete; give them the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the sprit of counsel and fortitude, the spirit of knowledge and piety; fill them with the spirit of the fear of the Lord.

Thus, receiving the seven-fold gifts of the Holy Spirit, we are now more ably to meet the challenges of the mission given to us by Christ, the mission to evangelize the world bringing as many people as we can to the Lord.

In my own experience, when I am most alive is when I am most aware that through the presence of the Holy Spirit in my life, I am offering the best version of myself to God as I give the best of myself to others. In the accounts from the Sacred Scripture, when Pentecost, that is the coming of the Holy Spirit, is described, they all reference a sending forth. What God has given us, we must give to others. When we are alive in the Spirit, we bring life to others. When we discover and develop our talents, our gifts, we must use them to help others. This all comes from God's one gift of the Holy Spirit upon the Church, upon us! Oh that we would live fully accepting and using the grace of the Holy Spirit in our lives.

Church: Happy birth-day to you!

Church: receive the Holy Spirit and go forth to announce the Good News!

CONGRATULATIONS...

Congratulations to all our Graduates in the Class of 2017! Whether you are graduating from Grammar School, High School, College/ University or with an Advanced Degree: a heartfelt wish of congratulations on your achievements.

A bit of a funny story… I remember when I was a newly ordained priest setting up my "first office." My dad had come to hang pictures and such on the walls, including my degrees earned from graduating College and the advanced degrees of the seminary. Once they were secured on the wall, he stepped back and jokingly said, "well there's an awful lot of money I wasted." We both laughed and then he said it was worth every penny! Education is an investment in you! Your achievement of graduation is the culmination of using the investment wisely! The pay off will be living a life whereby your talents, skill and knowledge is put to use to make a difference for good in the world.

And so to all graduates… be proud of what you've achieved thus far, be grateful for the sacrifices of others to give you this opportunity and be committed to building a better tomorrow by sharing the investment that has been made in you! Congratulations!

Peace & Prayers,

Fr. Lou

Listening to One Another… in the Spirit

I grew up in the 1950s. During those years I internalized a certain way that families were suppose to look. Therefore, when I thought of family, I thought of mom, dad and 3 kids because that's what my family—and most of my friend's families—looked like. Dad went to work and Mom stayed home and cooked, cleaned, washed and ironed clothes, and always…always…deferred to Dad on important issues. And, every issue was important!

As the 60s came round, things began to change in my house. All three of us kids were in school and my Mom wanted to get a part time job. Well, let me tell you, the days of deference were definitely over! My Mom started working at Edward C. Minas Company in Hammond, Indiana. Shopping malls weren't even a blip on the radar yet. So, if you wanted to do real shopping, downtown Hammond was the place you wanted to be. But, I am getting ahead of myself.

My mother's path to her job was not easy. For my Dad, the distance between stay at home Mom and working Mom was impassable. I can still remember the arguments and angry words that passed between them for months. And then, the dreadful silence—for months. They could not come to an agreement. Each one had their own reasons for wanting what they wanted. And truth be told, they both had really good reasons. But, they just wouldn't listen to each other. They were so focused on getting their own points across that neither took the time to hear and evaluate what the other one said or how they felt. They were divided and just could not, and then would not, communicate with each other.

However, in the end, a compromise had to be reached because the most important thing for our family was to cooperate with each other for the good of the whole family. It's human nature to defend one's own commitment to a point of view. It's those very beliefs that help us navigate the world around us and achieve our goals. But we cannot do that alone. We need to see, hear and communicate with the people around us. God did not make us to live alone in a fish bowl. That understanding of ourselves as communal creatures is made clear by the early scripture writers who put down the story of our creation that we read in Genesis. What is also made clear in scripture is that from the very beginning we were predisposed to misunderstanding, miscommunication and a misdirected sense that we each, as individuals, have the only correct opinion.

I think the story of the Tower of Babel says more about our ability to alienate ourselves from one another out of pride than it does about God wanting to serve us a piece of humble pie. It's not God's fault that we often choose to close our minds and hearts to the people around us.

IN FACT, GOD ONLY WANTS TO HELP US. That's why God sends the Holy Spirit to dwell within us. With his help we can learn to be understanding of another's viewpoint. That would naturally lead us to be wise and exercise good judgment. That's made clear in scripture, as well.

THE STORY OF PENTECOST SHOWS US what is possible when we are willing to listen and cooperate with others. It brings good to the whole world. That is our calling as disciples of Christ and members of the community of believers. Angry words or sitting in silence are just not an option for those of us who strive to do what is best for the whole family of God and further God's mission in the world.

TEN THOUSAND VILLAGES®

Why shop Fair Trade?

"Help a woman earn her own income and she will never be held down again." -Irani Sen

50 years ago, an arranged marriage ended dreams of earning a physics degree for a bright Indian student named Irani Sen. When her husband abandoned her a few years later, resources were frighteningly scarce for the young single mother. Determination, however, was not. Irani found work – and her calling – with some of India's earliest fair trade organizations.

Driven by deep-seated beliefs in social equality and personal experience, she has helped women across India create their own identities and achieve independence by becoming economically self-sufficient. Women represent more than 60% of Ten Thousand Villages' partner artisans, because research shows that empowering women – and their daughters – strengthens communities. Sustainable economies develop when women and girls have equal access to education, health care & dignified work.
